Part One: A-Reading Comprehension: 7 ptsThe joy of giving*Monday, December 20, 2010 by Renjith Nair

Charity is one of the noblest tasks that God asks us to do. Life on earth is not eternal, so we should take advantage of this brief period and live it with a purpose. For some people, the true meaning of life is the joy of giving.

A charitable person loves to help people in distress. He's very sensitive to the feelings of others. He's deeply moved at the sight of beggars or victims of disasters such as floods, earthquakes ...etc

Today, the world is in greater need of charity than ever before. The gap between the rich and the poor is widening. While on one hand there are billionaire businessmen and sport stars who live in luxury, on the other hand there exist millions of men, women and children suffering from poverty and starving to death.

Notably, it is undeniable that some rich people have always contributed to improve the situation of the poor. Many big corporations, charitable trusts and societies make good contributions in areas of poverty. This doesn't necessarily mean that one has to be billionaire to show charity. Even simple actions like feeding a poor man for a day or teaching a poor kid are acts of charity. This can make a great change in our community.
